Your funding options

You have choices when paying for your home care services including, government funding, NDIS funding or private pay.

Home Care Package (HCP)

When your care support needs become more complex, Home Care Packages are the best source to turn to. The benefits of Home Care Packages are:

- Funding is provided by the Commonwealth Government.
- Once assessed, funding will be given based on your assessed level and needs.
- Funding will be assessed based on pension and is income-means tested.

Commonwealth Home Support Programme (CHSP)

You should consider this programme if you're living independently in your own home, but need a little additional support:

- Funded by the Commonwealth Government Department of Health.
- Best if you're seeking basic support.
- You may be required to pay a client contribution.

Private Funding

If your circumstances permit, you can always pay directly for your services. When you choose private pay, you can:

- Choose the services you want instead of only what's covered.
- Pay for only the services you use.
- Receive services while waiting for your government funding to be assigned.

National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)

You should consider NDIS if you have a permanent disability and need support:

- Jointly funded by the Australian Government and state and territory governments.
- Each NDIS participant receives individualised funding plan.
- An NDIS plan will be designed based on your assessed needs and lifestyle choices.

iCare

iCare is a holistic healthcare solution that combines comprehensive insurance coverage and personalised care services:

- Provided to people who are severely injured in the workplace or on the roads.
- Supports long-term care needs to improve quality of life including helping people return to their work.

Since being with My Guardian, the positive impact on quality of life for my parents has been immense. They are healthier all-round and look forward to seeing the staff every week. Thank you for helping my parents get the assistance they need so they may stay in their own home. This means the world to us.

Stacey Kerr

I have a 10yo autistic son who accesses support workers with My Guardian. The organisation listened to my criteria and concerns, with my son being so young and have matched him well with amazing carers who he loves seeing each week. Thank you to My Guardian and all its staff who are very considerate and caring.

E.T

I am so very appreciative of My Guardian - their team have worked constantly to ensure my grandparents are receiving the best home care possible.

My grandparents have been very impressed with their carers & it's amazing to see how much easier their lives are becoming as they move into this next phase of their life.

My Guardian operates with professionalism, honesty and integrity. Extremely happy with their service and caring for my Grandmother (83) and Grandfather (90). They went above and beyond to make us all feel welcomed. They also supported my grandmother in dealing with the situation of her husband's change due to Alzheimers.

5 stars are not enough! My guardian made our life much easier. Whenever you need help, you will find them responding and acting quick to any circumstance.

I've been with many NDIS providers before I found the right one, so happy and thankful to be one of their clients.

Mayssa E

The best move we made for my parents, was to allow My Guardian to look after them! All the staff are a pleasure to deal with and are always so helpful and informative.

It was very hard to trust anyone with my own parents, but My Guardian have proven to be the right fit. Thank you all so much for your continued care.
